

Do any of your Young Staff Drive for Work?

RoSPA are looking for several employers who would like their young drivers (17-24) to take part in a free workshop.

The workshop will address employers' concerns about young drivers at work which were found in recently published research by RoSPA. They will take place between July and October.

Following an evaluation of the workshops, RoSPA will produce a guide for employers and managers on how to run similar workshops within their own organisations.

The research that the workshops are based on can be found at
