

Case Study

Company profile

Company: EcovertFM

Contact: Steven Browne

Title: Health and Safety Manager

Continual development

EcovertFM is a Facilities Management company offering a full range of self-delivered Facilities Management services to its clients.

Health and safety at EcovertFM

Of particular interest to us was the IOSH Managing Safely course, together with the IOSH Supervisors and Safety Representatives course.

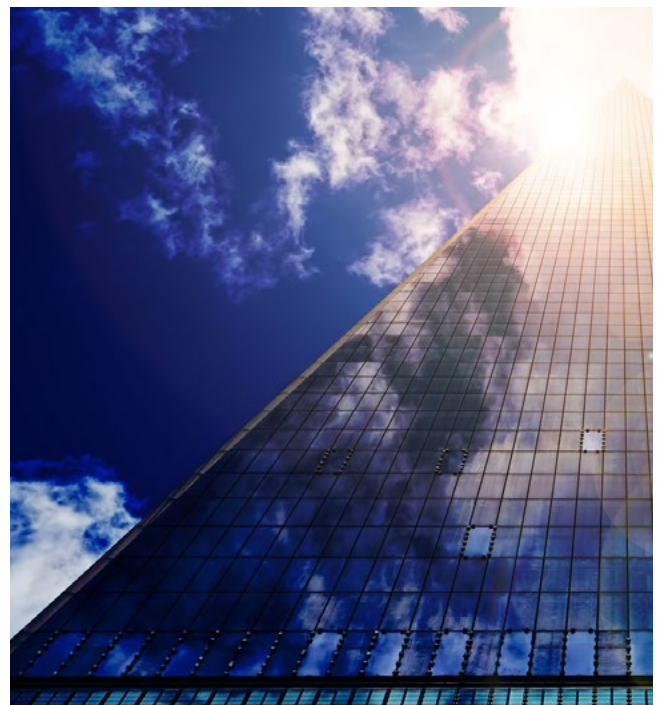

This training ensured that there is a top-down and bottom-up approach to health and safety within the organisation and is one way of raising general awareness of health and safety within EcovertFM.

Training employees

The training also ensured that health and safety is a regular item at all meetings, not just at safety committees. It is hoped that over time it will enable EcovertFM to reduce its insurance costs, due to ever-improving accident figures.

“As an employer, health and safety is seen as an essential part of all aspects of the business and is given full support by the board of directors. With this in mind, the company identified a need for bespoke professional training aimed at directors, managers, supervisors, safety representatives, and frontline staff.”

Steven Browne

EcovertFM was established with the main purpose of delivering an international standard of integrated and advisory facilities management services as well as specialised engineering services.

“We will certainly continue to use RoSPA for our future health and safety training needs.”

Steven Browne

We chose RoSPA as the training provider because one of our senior health and safety managers had worked with RoSPA in the past, and had always found them to be very professional and to have the gravitas that the company requires of its trainers.

The courses have been well-received and feedback from staff at all levels has been positive.

